PRESENTERS

Joe Appleton
Durham Public Schools
Private Consultant

Joe Appleton is a kindergarten teacher at Sandy Ridge Elementary Magnet School for the Visual and Performing Arts in Durham Public Schools. From 2003-2010 he was a preschool consultant for the More at Four program in the Governor's Office and at the Department of Public Instruction. Joe continues to provide training for preschool and kindergarten teachers across the state, as well as coaching individual teachers to help them improve their classroom practice.

Session 1:

Supporting Children's Learning through Curriculum, Standards and Intentionality

Child care regulators and funders (and savvy parents) stress the importance of standards and curriculum for preparing children for school and life. What's all the fuss? And how do these tools help children to learn and teachers to teach?

Session 2:

Supporting Children's Learning through Scaffolding

Tired of hearing "they're just playing all day?" Scaffolding is the sophisticated art of taking children's play and conversation and helping them build it into deeper and lasting learning. The best news: scaffolding can be planned for even better results.

Emily Ballance
Professional Speaker

Emily Ballance, MEd, LPC entertains, educates and inspires audiences with her humor, honesty and lively stories. Her presentations to associations, healthcare organizations, corporations, state and national conferences have been described as "highly entertaining, uplifting and thought provoking." She frequently speaks on humor, stress management and communication, and is a member of the National Speakers Association and the Association for Applied and Therapeutic Humor. Also a Licensed Professional Counselor, Emily is committed to helping people use positive, affirming humor to enhance their health, happiness, work and well-being. When she's not traveling or speaking, Emily volunteers her time with older adults and the Autism Society of North Carolina.

Session 3:

How to Reduce Stress, Survive and Thrive with Humor

Come to this upbeat, entertaining presentation and learn practical strategies you can use to reduce stress and add more humor, joy and fun to your life! Emily Ballance will show you how humor can improve communication and empower you and the people around you at work, at home and everywhere else. There'll be laughter, jokes, prizes and surprises as we explore the physical, psychological and emotional benefits of humor. You'll leave with a smile on your face and lots of suggestions to help you increase laughter, stimulate creativity, build self-esteem, connect with your children or students, and just plain have more fun!
